Forensic Medicine Registrar Positions 2018 6 Month Terms available

Applications are now being sought from medical graduates interested in Clinical Forensic Medicine Registrar positions in 2018.

These positions are accredited with the RACGP, ACEM and Sexual Health Chapter of the RACP (accreditation with the RCPA Faculty of Clinical Forensic Medicine is also expected to occur this year), and offer a fantastic opportunity for trainees to try something unique and rewarding.

The Forensic Medicine Registrar placement offers a great work-life balance and a friendly, non-hospital based experience. On this placement you can expect to acquire practical, sought-after skills that you will utilise throughout your career.

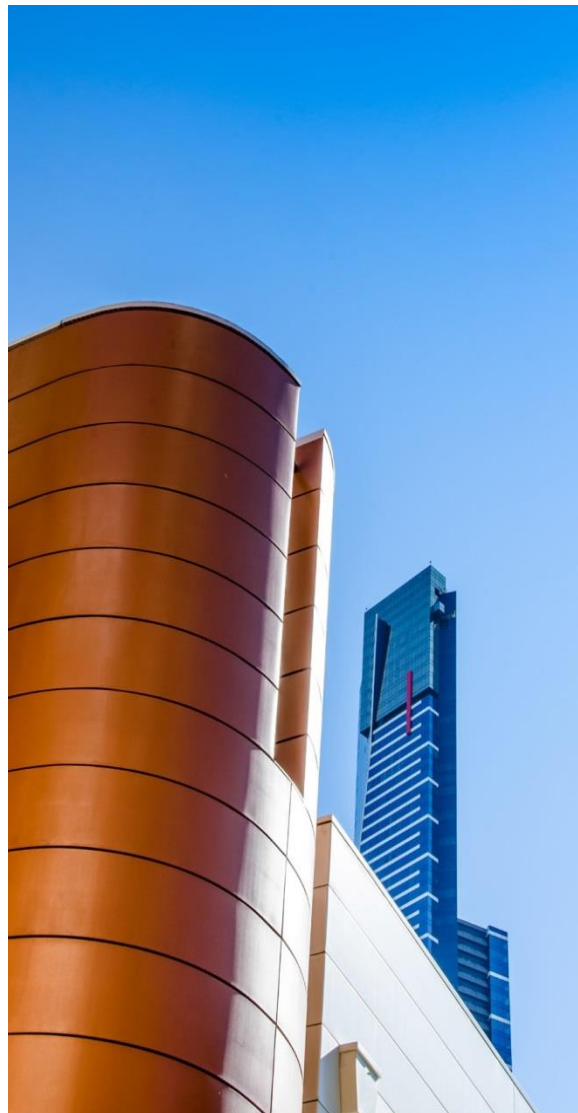

We offer excellent, well-supported training and practical experience in:

- Injury documentation
- Clinical photography
- Sexual assault examination
- Forensic evidence collection
- Medico-legal reports / police statements
- Ethical issues
- Exposure to court evidence
- Working with police

Minimum eligibility criteria:

- Medical qualification
- General registration with the AHPRA
- Fluency in English
- Valid police criminal records check
- Valid Australian driver's licence

Opportunities also exist for exposure to forensic pathology, toxicology, odontology and traffic medicine.

CLOSING DATE: 16th June 2017

Expressions of interest together with your curriculum vitae nominating two referees should be forwarded to:
